Shakopee, MN -- Dorsett rallied from last to win the $200,000 Mystic Lake Derby Saturday at Canterbury Park for jockey Lori Keith, trainer Michael Stidham and owner Terry Hamilton. That trio also won the inaugural Mystic Lake Derby last year with Hammers Terror. The 2013 rendition offered the largest purse in Minnesota horse racing since 1991.

Keith took the 3-year-old colt to the back of the eight-horse field and began to pass horses on the far turn of the one-mile turf race. The wagering favorite overtook Red Zeus and Coastal Breeze in mid stretch, drawing off to win by three lengths in a final time of 1:35.69. Dorsett paid $4.40 to win. Coastal Breeze was second and Impassable Canyon finished third. Red Zeus faded to fourth.

“I’m very thankful for the opportunity,” Keith said. “The trainer told me to let him find his feet, that was about it. I was pretty confident throughout. I had a lot of horse at every given stage. I felt like all I had to do was push the button and that was the case.”

Dorsett has now won three of eight starts and $194,670 in purses.

Stoupinator won the $100,000 Northbound Pride Oaks by a head over pacesetter Seeking Treasure. Stoupinator is owned by Joseph Novogratz of Excelsior, MN, trained by Mac Robertson, and was ridden by Alex Canchari.

Following a stewards' inquiry, Seeking Treasure was disqualified for interference before the finish line and placed sixth. Kipling's Joy and Raising Dakota dead heated for third and were moved to second after the disqualification.

Final time for one-mile on the turf was 1:35.78. Stoupinator returned $14.00 to win.

Wagering favorite General Jack tracked Chairman Crooks throughout the 7 ½ furlong $100,000 Shakopee Juvenile Stakes, never letting him get more than a length lead. General Jack and jockey Victor Lebron passed the pacesetter in the stretch and powered off to win by three lengths in 1:29.70. The 2-year-old colt had one prior career start. He finished second in a maiden turf sprint at Belmont Park July 12. General Jack is owned by F. Thomas Conway and Michael Maker. Maker is also the trainer. Chairman Crooks held second and A P is Loose finished third.

"I'm going to go home and start dreaming about the first Saturday in May," Conway said.

General Jack paid $3.40 to win.

Attendance Saturday at the Shakopee racetrack was 10,372.
